

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A reusable bacteria inhibiting hygienic device for vaginal/colon and external genital cleansing suited for use while seating on the toilet or standing in a tub, respectively, including a rigid stationary/flexible portable container proficient in delivering a sufficient amount of douche, colon or external genital preparation provided with a vented cap, a volume sensitive valve, a retainer cap, short length of tubing with threads attached to retainer, and the other end of the short length of tubing attached to the top of a control valve with a backflush prevention ballcheck valve, an adequate length of tubing with one end attached to the bottom of the control valve and opposite end of adequate length of tubing attached to an accessory nozzle of choice.